Dolphins are highly intelligent marine mammals that live in water but breathe through a blowhole on the top of their head just as whales and porpoises do. They are remarkable creatures that have developed a form of sonar called echolocation to hunt and prey. They are very friendly and playful. Dolphins are highly intelligent marine mammals and are part of the family of toothed whales that includes orcas and pilot whales. They are found worldwide, mostly in shallow seas of the continental shelves, and are carnivores, mostly eating fish and squid. Dolphins have smooth skin, flippers, and a dorsal fin. They have a long, slender snout with about 100 teeth, and a streamlined body. Each dolphin has a different character and role in their pod.
